Completed applications must be delivered to the editor in chief, whose office is in Morgan University Center Room 115.

Please check which position you are applying for. All positions listed receive a stipend at the end of the semester, and if hired, students should ensure their end-of-semester pay will not negatively affect their financial aid awards. Editor positions typically require previous experience. All editors are required to attend weekly meetings.

*Please attach appropriate samples of your work.

Have you ever worked for a school-related or professional print publication before?

If yes, please specify if daily, weekly, etc. If you've worked for The All State before, explain what you would do differently (if anything) in the position you are applying for/re-applying for and why you wish to remain with The All State.

If you have worked for a publication, including The All State, specify which types of beats you covered.

If you have held an editorial position, specify and describe your duties.

Are you involved in any other activities/organizations on campus? If yes, specify. Please note that All State staff members cannot hold any position or be affiliated with the Student Government Association or hold any leadership position with a campus organization/department that could pose a conflict of interest.

What experience, skills would you bring to The All State?
