

Non-Credit Activities

POLICIES

Issued: March 25, 2017

Responsible Provost and Vice President for Academic

Official: Affairs

Responsible Office: Office of Continuing Education

Policy Statement

Conferences, seminars, workshops, institutes, or similar non-credit activities may be sponsored by Continuing Education or by academic departments, or other University units, or through joint sponsorship.

Non-Credit Short Course activities, except those offered in fulfillment of a contract between the University and a non-university organization, may be sponsored only by the Office of Continuing Education. The President will approve short course fees annually during the budget cycle for the coming year.

Continuing Education may sponsor or cosponsor any non-credit activity that has been approved by the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Academic departments and other University activities may sponsor or cosponsor activities for which they assume full financial responsibility or for which they share financial responsibility with some off-campus cosponsor. The nature of sponsored activities shall be in conformity with University policies and be approved by the Dean of the college or other University official at that level, except as provided in paragraph two above.
