

Mask

Laura Galbreath

Today is a new day I keep telling myself
Yes, I am fine I keep telling you
It is easy to put on a mask when I am trying to hide
My emotions are running through me like the tide
Fighting back the tears and the what did I do wrong feelings
Wanted it so bad but life had other plans for me
Hurting inside and physically from the loss
Reminder in the bathroom is always a nice thing
Looking at the stuff that was bought for you
And knowing you weren't the one to come
Today is a new day I keep telling myself
The joy you would of brought and now the sorrow and pain we feel for loosing you
These tears I shed aren't for me they are for you
I know it is our path for you too be here
But, it is my body that killed you
On the inside I am a murderer without even knowing it
Some things cannot be changed
Cannot go back in time
Maybe your soul wasn't ready to meet us
Today is a new day I keep telling myself
Yes, I am fine I keep telling you
It is easy to put on a mask when I am trying to hide.
I won't give up on my destiny
I won't give up on you
We already loved you and we didn't even know you
We already were excited and you were being shy
Just know that we will keep trying to make our own destinies come true
And that we love you
Today is a new day I keep telling myself..
As I pick my mask back up and put it back on.....