How We Support Military-Affiliated Students

APSU Writing Center Handout

Military-Affiliated Students

Whether you are an active-duty service member, veteran, military spouse, or dependent, we want you to know that the APSU Writing Center is here to support you throughout your academic journey! Balancing college with military service, work, family obligations, and other commitments can be challenging. That is why we offer flexible writing support designed to meet our APSU Students where they are, no matter their schedule.

What does the Writing Center Provide?

We provide free one-on-one consultations to help you build confidence in your writing and encourage personal development. We offer three options for consultations and a variety of hours.

- In-person: Meet with a writing consultant at the writing center on campus
- Online: Connect with a tutor virtually in a virtual meeting setting.
- Asynchronous (drop-box): Create an appointment to submit writing for feedback without having to physically attend. This option is also available on weekends!

Where Do I Start?

Getting started is easy! Visit us at the Felix G. Woodward Library, next to Starbucks on the main floor. We are also available to meet online or through asynchronous feedback if you are busy. You do not have to navigate the writing process alone! We also have writing handouts on our website and a YouTube channel that has videos going over writing concepts, citation styles, assignment information, and more.

Taking Care of Yourself is Important!

Success as a student takes time. It is important to remember to take time for yourself. Take advantage of all the free tutoring and other resources APSU offers. There is also a Newton Military Family Resource Center dedicated to helping you succeed!

Newton Military Family Resource Center

The William E. & Sadako S. Newton Military Family Resource Center is Tennessee's largest military student center and a welcoming hub for all Austin Peay students. This 5,300-square-foot facility provides military-affiliated students—including active-duty, veterans, reservists, National Guard members, ROTC cadets, retirees, and military families—with a one-stop shop for academic, social, and career support.

Location: 426 College Street
